An Old Native Returns.

Last week Mr. Washington Donley, cousin to the Lees, came back to Hocking on a visit, after an absence of 50 years. He was born out near Star Postoffice in 1816. When nine years of age his parents removed to near Fort Wayne. His father and mother dying soon after, young Donley took up with the Miami Indians, and became adopted in the tribe. He traveled with them in all their various wanderings over the plains, across the Rockies, practicing all their habits and interested in all their movements as much as one of their own blood. When the tribe dwindled and disappeared, died out, Donley returned to civilized society, married and settled down as a blacksmith in Montgomery county, and by faithful attention to his work earned a competence. Some two weeks ago he took the notion, he said, that he would like to see the old "stamping ground" in Hocking. For fear he might not be known to his people after fifty years absence, he tore from his mother's Bible, which he had saved through all his wanderings, a leaf containing the entry of his father's and mother's, his own and his brother's births.

He did not need this evidence, for his cousin Sam. Lee knew him the moment he looked him square in the face. The old gentleman wandered about the country and recognized the spot where he was born and the hills and hollows among which he played when a child. He said all had changed but the hills and hollows, these the white man could not destroy nor carry away.

Mr. Donley and Mr. Lee made us a pleasant call last Thursday and entertained us for an hour with an interesting description of some of his experience among the Indians. We hope his visit will be a pleasant one and that he will find the hearts of our Hocking people generous as of old and as unchanging as the hills and hollows where they live.

Death of Geo. W. Lehman.

George W. Lehman, one of the prominent citizens of Green township, and a man known and esteemed throughout our county, died suddenly at his residence on last Friday night, his unexpected death causing a profound sorrow in the wide circle of friends throughout our county. He accidentally caught cold which settled on his lungs, causing Capillary Bronchitis, as stopping or collapsing of the air tubes, and notwithstanding all that medical skill and kindly devoted family attention could render, died within twenty four hours after the disease attacked him.

Geo. W. Lehman was born in Perry county, O., Dec. 26, 1823, died Aug. 22, 1884, aged 60 years, 7 months and 26 days. He was married to Mary Hiles in 1852, who still survives him. They were born to them three sons and one daughter. But one son and ten grand children survive him.

Soon after his marriage he joined the U. B. Church, and continued a faithful and exemplary member of this denomination until his death. His remains were interred at the Ebenezer Church, near Nathan England's old home, on last Sunday.

The funeral was attended by sorrowing friends from all the country round and was the largest ever witnessed in the township. Mr. Lehman was one of our best and most useful citizens, and his death is not only a sad bereavement to his family and friends, but a great loss to the public and the community in which he lived.

His afflicted family have the profound sympathy of the entire public in this hour of affliction.

Sheriff McCarthy visited Perry county last week and arrested a man named Dial, charged with stoning the cars at Corbin Hill. He gives us a graphic account of his reception by the Bizzard Root officials in the Sheriff's office at that place which will be referred to later.

Dial was brought before the Mayor and waving examination, was bound over to Court in the sum of $500.

Last week the President of the Albion, N. Y. bank absconded, and it is thought took all the money amounting to nearly a million, with him. The safe was left locked, and at this time the most expert mechanics have not been able to cut it open. The father of Mrs. Mayor Brehm, of our town, had all his surplus deposited in this bank, and it is feared, is a heavy loser.

McGahan.

On last Thursday the remains of McGahan reached New York, where they were kept in state in the new Governor's room, awaiting the arrival of the Ohio Legislative Committee, and the Local and Press Committees of New Lexington.

Referring to him, the New York Herald of Tuesday last, has this beautiful tribute: "Few things seem to the general eye less heroic than the ordinary duties of the journalist, and yet McGahan was able to do in a world as a newspaper correspondent. MacGahan was a student in Brussels in 1880. From that city he started as a HERALD correspondent on an unusual degree with brilliant achievements and heroic activities, and he perished at last because in the generous ardor of his devotion to duty he could not stop to economize his own life. In honoring such a man his native State prides itself to all her sons a noble ideal. The remains will arrive in Columbus to day, (Thursday) where they will lie in state in the Capitol, after which they will be taken to Zanesville, and there kept until September 11th when the funeral obsequies will take place at New Lexington. The demonstration is expected to be the largest assembly of representative men ever assembled in the county.

Gen. Phil Sheridan, raised on the adjoining farm will be present, as will hundreds of Perry countians who in other parts have won fame, but who hold fast the green memories of the old home place.

A Banner Display.

Bro. Smith, editor of the Shawnee Banner, now proudly waves the Flag of our Union.

The "Banner display" on the clothes line is in consequence of an extra edition" on last Saturday evening—a nine pound boy as handsome as his mother and the very living image of his dad.

May the boy have lots of brothers and sisters, who, as stars may struggle with beauty and delight in the paternal editorial fraternity.

Birthday Party.

One of the most enjoyable occasions of the season took place at the home of George Hansel, on Scotch Creek, it being his 40th anniversary. The arrangements being made the previous day for George to go a squirrel hunting; his comrade came at the appointed time but George being an old veteran, and judging from the movements that there was something wrong in camp, & refused to shoulder his musket.

Shortly he saw reinforcements coming, buggies, expresses and wagons from all parts, came driving in until the crowd numbered seventy-five all bringing baskets, such as roasted meats, fried chickens, everything in fact that would almost make a hungry man jump out of his skin. Dinner was announced at twelve, George was seated at the head of the table with his amiable lady to the left who reminded him of his birthday by presenting him with a beautiful moustache cup. Mr. and Mrs. Hansel, who never fail to perform their duty on an occasion of this kind made every one feel at home, and after all were served and congratulating them that they might live to enjoy many similar occasions, the crowd returned to their homes, feeling that the day was well spent.

We hope the miners will not hear of the wild ravings of men who advise them to acts of violence. Revolution and outlaws are sometimes excusable, but in this case where the law and public sentiment sustain the miners in their effort to secure living wages, no necessity exists for violence.

An act of violence may be the very means of bringing to the relief of the Syndicate what it most desires, the military of the State.

Lawyers and Pickertons are most interested in keeping up the strike. Let the miners be orderly, law abiding and just, and their rights will be conceded.

Of the forty blast furnaces in the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys nine are in blast and thirty one out of blast. We suppose that because Hancock was elected, or it's because of free trade?—[Jackson Herald.]

It is the duty of our Board of Health to quarantine our city against the rag-a-muffians whom the Republican Syndicate are attempting to colonize in the Hocking Valley.
